PROCEEDING

THE COURT: I'm sorry, go ahead.

ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: That's okay. We filed

4 a protective action here, this action, so that we'd have -

THE COURT: Let me just stop you right there.

What does that mean, a protective action, and how's that not abusive of the judicial process?

ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: So the reason it's not 9 abusive of the judicial process is we filed the case in 10 the event that the D.C. action was dismissed for lack of 11 personal jurisdiction, recognizing the plaintiffs, or that 12 the defendants had raised a personal jurisdiction defense
13 and recognizing the possibility that the statute of 14 limitations could expire and we could find ourselves in a,
15 you know, unable to establish personal jurisdiction after 16 the dismissal of the proceeding in D.C., we filed a 17 protective action, this action in front of this court and 18 stated so that in the event that the D.C. proceedings were 19 dismissed for a lack of personal jurisdiction, we would 20 have a timely action to fall back on. It was never the 21 intention --

22

THE COURT: I understand what you're saying,

23

but, frankly, I mean, you know, the court is not really

24

here to provide guarantees for your strategic decisions.

25

But we are where we are. I mean I don't understand why

1 PROCEEDING

2 you could not have, you know, the jurisdiction you're 3 asserting here, just like D.C., is not dependent on any
4 fact-based connection to the jurisdiction the way you
5 would normally be arguing in terms of a personal
6 jurisdiction analysis. It's predicated upon a federal,
7 federally enacted statute.

8 So if you can get jurisdiction here, you
9 could've gotten jurisdiction there once the statute was 10 passed. Now, I understand the statute postdates the 11 filing of your lawsuit, but did you move for leave to 12 amend?

13 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: In front of the D.C., 14 in front of the D.C. district court, we did not move for,
15 we did not for leave. If the question is did we move for 16 a leave to amend to assert the PSJVTA as a ground for 17 personal jurisdiction, no, we didn't because the statute
18 wasn't enacted until after the D.C. district court had 19 already granted summary judgment.

20 THE COURT: But you were then in the district
21 court, I mean in the circuit court. Did you ask there?

22 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: I don't believe a
23 request was made in front of the - I mean I know the 24 questions around the PSJVTA were raised in front of the 25 D.C. circuit, and it was actually the defendants' position

1 PROCEEDING

2 that if there were going to be issues around the 3 application of the PSJVTA, that those questions should be 4 litigated before this court in this action rather than in 5 the D.C. action.

6 THE COURT: I did see that. I can see that is 7 in correspondence that the defendant sent to the clerk of 8 the circuit court. So let me ask you, is your claim here,
9 does your complaint reference the PSJVTA?

10 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: It does not, although 11 the PSJVTA, as far as we're concerned here, is not the 12 substantive cause of action, but here leaves a vehicle for 13 establishing personal jurisdiction over the defendants,
14 and there are plenty --

15 THE COURT: Right, I understand that.

16 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Oh, sure. Okay.

17 THE COURT: I understand that, but in the first 18 instance a complaint on its face has to plead a basis for 19 jurisdiction, and you're telling me you've only pled the 20 same statute that the D.C. circuit found was not 21 sufficient to confer jurisdiction, correct?

22 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Well, no, actually the 23 D.C. circuit never found that the PSJVTA was insufficient
24 to establish jurisdiction.

25 THE COURT: Oh, it found that the original

1 PROCEEDING 6

2 statute, which is all you've pled here, was insufficient.

3 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: That's correct, Your
4 Honor, so what we're --

5 THE COURT: Right.

6 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: -- what we're - but 7 there are sort of two points, if I may, Your Honor. I
8 don't mean to talk over the Court.

9 THE COURT: It's all right. I understand the 10 difficulty with telephonic hearings.

11 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: I'm so sorry. So the 12 point is that there are two aspects of jurisdiction here.
13 One is personal jurisdiction; the other is subject matter
14 jurisdiction. Of course, there's no question that subject
15 matter jurisdiction must be alleged in the complaint, and 16 we've done that. Personal jurisdiction, on the other 17 hand, is not required to be pled because that is a, and 18 courts have said it, because that's a waivable defense. I
19 mean I suppose it's possible, I don't think it's likely,
20 but it's possible that the defendants could decide that 21 they don't want to assert personal jurisdiction as a
22 defense and that they didn't want to do that, the case
23 could proceed.

24 So, you know, courts have held that personal
25 jurisdiction need not, you know, the basis for personal

2 jurisdiction and facts relating to personal jurisdiction
3 need not be pled in the complaint. We can amend our 4 complaint to do that if the Court thinks we need to, but I
5 think the law is that we don't have to do that.

6 THE COURT: All right, I understand your
7 position. Let me just ask you one more question though,
8 do you specifically - I'm trying to pull up your original
9 complaint. I don't have it right in front of me. Do you
10 specifically reference the anti-terrorism statute, the 11 earlier statute?

12 ATTORNEY FOR DEFENDANT: Oh, yes. We 13 specifically reference the anti-terrorism act. The 14 claims, the complaint includes claims asserted under 15 the anti-terrorism act. And the original complaint -
16 yes, that's right, Your Honor, and actually the 17 complaint also includes allegations of conduct that if the 18 conduct had occurred after the trigger dates, in the 19 promoting security and justice for victims of terrorism
20 act, would be a basis for concluding that there had been a 21 consent.

22 So the only question really is, and it's kind of 23 astonishing that in their correspondence the defendants
24 haven't addressed it because everybody knows that that's 25 the issue here, are they still doing it? Are they still

1 PROCEEDING

2 making these pay-to-slay payments to individuals who've
3 been convicted of crimes relating to terrorist acts that 4 killed Americans or who died in terrorist acts that 5 resulted in the death of Americans? Or, you know, have 6 they engaged in other conduct that, you know, in the 7 United States that under the statute would trigger a
8 consent to personal jurisdiction?

9 THE COURT: Right, I understand that, and 10 that's why you want to take jurisdictional discovery,
11 right?

12 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Precisely, we want - I
13 mean, look, we think we can make an excellent start toward 14 establishing personal jurisdiction. Maybe we can even use
15 public source information to prove it, but if the 16 defendants are denying that they've engaged in conduct
17 that would trigger jurisdiction under the statute, we 18 would like an opportunity to conduct targeted discovery so
19 that we can prove it to the Court.

20 THE COURT: All right, so the question I have 21 for you is, given that you did reference the earlier
22 statute, isn't it for the sake of good order better for 23 your complaint to now reference the statute on which you
24 are trying to rely?

25 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: If the Court thinks

1 PROCEEDING

2 it's necessary, we don't actually think it's necessary to 3 do, but if the Court believes it would be helpful or 4 appropriate for us to do that, we could certainly amend
5 our complaint to include allegations relating to the 6 current statute.

7 THE COURT: All right, anything else you want
8 to tell me at this point?

9 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: I suppose the only
10 thing I would add is that if we are going to, you know,
11 we are going to conduct the jurisdictional discovery
12 which we've requested, we think the sensible thing to do
13 would be to have that discovery take place in, you know,
14 in a sort of targeted way in a defined period of time
15 before the briefing of motions to dismiss just so that the 16 issues can be addressed one time instead of more than one 17 time.

18 THE COURT: I understand. How long are you
19 telling me you need?

20 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: So we could actually 21 issue discovery requests relating to, you know, relating 22 to the issues that the PSJVTA raises next week, and we 23 could serve interrogatories, we could serve document
24 requests, and maybe we could serve some deposition notices
25 promptly. The question will be how long it takes the

1 PROCEEDING 10
2 defendants to comply with these requests. As I understand
3 it, you know, there is actually with respect to these pay-
4 to-slay payment there actually is, you know, there
5 actually is sort of a well-defined process that the 6 Palestinian Authority can establish. They maintain files
7 and records on individuals who engage in these acts of 8 terrorism and who are entitled to receive these, you know,
9 are entitled to receive these payments. So the records
10 exist, they've been produced in other litigation by these 11 defendants, so there's actually no reason that the 12 documents couldn't be produced to us relatively promptly
13 if we get reasonable cooperation.

14 So ordinarily in a situation like this, I say we 15 probably need, you know, 60 or 90 days to get the 16 documents and do the discovery, but a lot of it is going 17 to depend on how much, you know, how much cooperation we 18 get from the defendants. So we also have the added
19 complication of COVID-19 here.

20 So my sense is, you know, we would probably want
21 to have, because I assume as well that the documents are 22 going to be foreign language documents, we would probably 23 want to have the documents and then have 60 days after we 24 receive the documents to get them translated, digest them,
25 understand our position, and - oh, I'm sorry.

THE COURT: I'm going to interrupt you. You are talking about asking me to put a 2018 case which is an old case in the Southern District, reportable by me as a stale old case, you're asking me basically to put it on hold for another six months while you conduct discovery? I mean why didn't you serve this discovery over the summer?

ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Your Honor, we're not entitled to serve discovery in this case until there's been a 26(f) conference and waiting until the Court otherwise authorizes. The defendants asked for time to respond, we gave it to them as a courtesy, there hasn't been a 26(f) conference, and we've --

15

THE COURT: Why not --

16

ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: -- made our request for jurisdiction discovery.

18

THE COURT: Why not? Discovery under the federal rules is self-effectuating. You do not need to come to the court to ask to have a 26(f) conference. You're supposed to do that as responsible professionals on your own, and you're supposed to exchange initial disclosures promptly. So you're basically telling me nothing has happened in this case. Is that correct?

25

ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Your Honor, as I said,

1 PROCEEDING 12
2 we, you know, when the D.C. circuit ruled and after a
3 determination was made with respect to whether there would 4 be a petition for cert in that case, we reached out to the 5 defendants, we made service. You know, the defendants
6 asked for some time to respond which we granted them, and 7 as soon as they responded, as soon as they put their 8 letter in, we respond, you know, we put our request in for 9 discovery the same day.

10 THE COURT: And by response do you mean respond
11 to the complaint or that hasn't happened yet?

12 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: No, no, they put their 13 response to the complaint, I mean they filed a letter with 14 the court which Your Honor has, and it's on for a
15 conference today, asking for permission to make a motion
16 to dismiss.

17 THE COURT: Okay. All right, let me hear from 18 the defendants.

19 MR. MITCHELL BERGER: Good morning, Your Honor, 20 it's Mitchell Berger. If I may, I'd like to address your 21 summary of past proceedings which I think are going to be 22 relevant and then ask, respond to your question about what 23 we've been doing and then talk about what we would like to 24 do going forward, and all of this requires some context,
25 which is the original --

1

THE COURT: Counsel. So excuse me. Let me just say please bear in mind I have read both opinions out of D.C., I've read all the letters. I am fairly familiar, and we've been at this for almost a half hour. I appreciate you haven't spoken yet, but I don't want a total rehash of what you've said in your letters and of what happened in D.C. All right?

MR. BERGER: Totally understand, Your Honor. You had asked us to correct the Court if we had any disagreement about the past history of this case, and one of those has to do with Your Honor's summary about whether there was a request for jurisdiction discovery in D.C., and on that point I simply wanted to let the Court know that didn't happen in D.C. Next point is there have been three of these lawsuits of which this is only one.

17

THE COURT: Counsel, slow down so I can ask you questions if I have them. All right? Isn't it a fact that that there was no jurisdiction discovery in D.C. because your clients, I don't know whether it was you or, who was representing the defendants in D.C. as well, but wasn't there a letter to the court in D.C. saying, I think it was to the circuit court and maybe even to the clerk of the court, saying that the jurisdictional discovery under this new PSJVTA, which the circuit had suggested might

2 provide an avenue for jurisdiction, you represented to the 3 court in a letter dated December 30, 2019 that that
4 discovery might more appropriately happen, the best
5 vehicle for plaintiffs to advance their PSJVTA arguments
6 are the two pending duplicative actions in New York, one
7 of which is this case. Correct?

8 MR. BERGER: All but the last part. The other
9 duplicative case was pending in D.C., and it was not clear
10 to us, Your Honor, which one the plaintiffs would chose to 11 pursue. So they had two cases in front of Judge Leon and 12 they had this case, as Your Honor pointed out, that was 13 originally before Judge Woods. What happened, and to 14 answer Your Honor's question about what we've been doing,
15 is, first, we waited until, and they waited until their 16 time to seek certiorari from the D.C. circuit opinion
17 expired, and that was July. When the plaintiffs asked to 18 then lift the stay in this case and have voluntarily
19 dismissed the other case in D.C., we conferred and we said
20 if you're pursuing the PSJVTA, we would like you to amend 21 your complaint so we will know what your allegations are 22 and we can take it forward from there. And their position
23 at that time, which is contrary to their offer to Your 24 Honor today, was we don't need to amend the complaint.
25 So, therefore, we had to proceed by way of, in essence,

1 PROCEEDING 15

2 shadow boxing. That is what we raised in our premotion
3 conference letter.

4 Thirdly --

5 THE COURT: Counsel, slow down. But you did
6 not answer my question, did you not represent to the D.C.
7 circuit that whatever jurisdictional discovery was going
8 to happen with respect to whether the PSJVTA created
9 jurisdiction over your clients could better happen either
10 in the second case in front of Judge Leon, which you're 11 now telling me was dismissed voluntarily, or in this case
12 in front of me? Didn't you tell that to the D.C. circuit
13 in order to have discovery not happen there?

14 MR. BERGER: No, I respectfully disagree, Your 15 Honor. I don't think that's what we said, and it relates 16 to my point about the broader context and what's going on 17 in two parallel cases in this district. What we said was 18 --

19 (interposing)

20 THE COURT: -- me this letter that I just read
21 to you dated December 30, 2019 where - signed by - who's 22 speaking, by the way? I'm sorry.

23 MR. BERGER: This is Mitchell Berger, Your 24 Honor.

25 THE COURT: All right, so Mr. Baloul said in a

1 PROCEEDING 16
2 letter dated December 30, 2019 to Mark Langer, clerk of 3 the D.C. circuit court, "Nor should this court remand to 4 direct factual development of this question, the question
5 being whether the PSJVTA could supply a new basis for 6 personal jurisdiction." He went on to say, "Plaintiffs
7 are pursuing these same claims through two other lawsuits
8 filed in December 2018 as a vehicle to argue for 9 jurisdiction on alternative bases beyond those that this
10 court has been considering. Those alternative
11 jurisdictional bases include a precursor to the PSJVTA,
12 the anti-terrorism clarification act. Plaintiffs' two 13 pending duplicative actions provide a readily available
14 better vehicle for plaintiffs to advance their PSJVTA
15 arguments." Now you're trying to argue the exact opposite
16 to me here, are you not?

17 MR. BERGER: No, respectfully, Your Honor, I
18 disagree. There are --

19 (interposing)

20 MR. BERGER: -- we talked about argument --

21 THE COURT: You're fine with discovery going 22 forward here then?

23 MR. BERGER: No, Your Honor, and I'd like to 24 explain why if I could.

25 THE COURT: Yeah, go ahead. I want to

17

2 understand why the statement that I just read to you does
3 not say what I'm understanding it to say.

4 MR. BERGER: Because, Your Honor, the word that 5 your, that ended the sentence that Your Honor read and 6 which appears earlier in that same paragraph had to do
7 with their arguments, not facts, but with their arguments
8 that the statute applied. The very first question that we 9 asked for plaintiffs when we conferred with them was are 10 you making those arguments, and their response, in 11 essence, was we don't have to tell you, and that is why we 12 asked them when we conferred. There are three aspects,
13 respectfully, to whether or not the PSJVTA can supply
14 jurisdiction. Two of those are purely legal arguments.

15 And we know this because the Second Circuit in 16 the Waldman case, which is referenced in the next
17 paragraph of the letter to which Your Honor referred me,
18 is proceeding before Judge Daniels without jurisdictional
19 discovery to take up PSJVTA arguments which includes 20 statutory construction arguments and constitutional
21 arguments. And the plaintiffs in the Waldman Sokolow case
22 pursued or sought a jurisdictional discovery as well, and 23 we said that that was not an appropriate way forward
24 because the plaintiffs there likewise had not amended
25 their complaint. Judge Daniels agreed that jurisdictional

2 discovery should not go forward there and, in fact, set
3 briefing to deal with the arguments, namely, statutory 4 construction and constitutional.

5 We have a third case pending before Judge Furman
6 called the Fuld case, F-U-L-D, which also raises PSJVTA
7 arguments. And what we're trying, respectfully, Your 8 Honor, to do is to have an organized process across all 9 three cases, Shatsky, Fuld, and Sokolow, to handle the 10 PSJVTA issues which we know not only does Judge Daniels
11 have set for briefing before him, but the Second Circuit
12 expressly directed - I know Your Honor knows this so this 13 is in the letter that we sent - will immediately revert to 14 the Second Circuit for an authoritative determination. So

16 THE COURT: On the statutory construction and 17 the constitutional issue only.

18 MR. BERGER: Well, on any issue. They told 19 Judge Daniels to investigate all issues having to do with 20 the applicability of the PSJVTA, all issues.

21 THE COURT: (inaudible) that Judge Daniels
22 declined to allow jurisdictional discovery and briefing on 23 the fact-based aspect of it, correct?

24 MR. BERGER: Yes, he declined to do that, and 25 what we have asked the plaintiffs to do, Your Honor, and

1 PROCEEDING 19
2 this is why we think jurisdictional discovery is overkill,
3 they don't need to prove every possible factual predicate.
4 If they pled their factual predicates for PSJVTA
5 jurisdiction, then we would be able to determine either by 6 way of answering the complaint or otherwise, perhaps a 7 stipulation, if there was even any factual dispute. It is 8 a complete overkill to allow discovery on jurisdictional
9 issues when it's the least consequential of the three when 10 there remain serious statutory construction and 11 constitutional arguments that the Second Circuit has 12 already chartered a path for how it wishes to resolve
13 them. And if there's not going to be an interlocutory
14 appeal of any jurisdictional determination in this case,
15 then we run the risk of conflicting rulings.

16 So all we're seeking here, and we sought with 17 the plaintiffs from the outset, is let's have an orderly 18 process to deal with these issues because these issues are 19 going to go up to the Second Circuit, and it doesn't serve 20 either judicial efficiency or the parties' resources to 21 have three separate courts - Your Honor, Judge Daniels,
22 and Judge Furman in the Fuld case - all addressing the 23 same issues that are going to revert immediately to the 24 Second Circuit.

25 THE COURT: Counsel, take a pause. Take a

1 PROCEEDING 20
2 pause. I have a question I'd like to ask. All right?
3 You are basically - first of all, let me just ask you,
4 before I get to the other question I want to ask, what's 5 the status of the Fuld case?

6 MR. BERGER: Our motion to dismiss is due on 7 Monday, November 9.

8 THE COURT: And you're moving on the legal 9 grounds or are you moving on factual grounds as well?

10 MR. BERGER: Your Honor, we'll be moving on 11 legal grounds, and we will be making an argument that I
12 would like to make as well to Your Honor today, which is 13 that --

14 THE COURT: Hold on, hold on.

15 MR. BERGER: I'll stop, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: Did you tee up in front of Judge
17 Furman the same argument that you made to me that this is 18 all being litigated in front of Judge Daniels and we ought 19 to have everything handled in a coordinated fashion?

20 MR. BERGER: The answer to that, Your Honor, is 21 that will be teed up on Monday, November 9, because we 22 originally moved to dismiss in Fuld back in August before
23 the Second Circuit had set this process in motion and the 24 plaintiffs in Fuld amended their complaint. Judge Furman
25 set a schedule by which our response to the amended

21

2 complaint is due Monday. We are going to make the
3 argument on Monday that I am hoping to make to Your Honor
4 today about how to handle the PSJVTA issues.

5 THE COURT: All right, counsel, I mean have you
6 not made the argument? You've told me you want me to wait
7 and see what Judge Daniels does.

8 MR. BERGER: No, Your Honor, I'd like to give
9 Your Honor some legal authority that makes some sense
10 here. I think we have three pass forward, all of which 11 demonstrate the jurisdictional discovery would be on the 12 one hand premature and on the other hand overkill. So I'd 13 like to point out that if we filed a motion of the type we 14 sought to make in our premotion conference letter which,
15 A, challenged jurisdiction and, B, sought summary judgment
16 based on the 18-year-old history of the first Shatsky case
17 where full discovery was taken that under Federal Rule of 18 Civil Procedure 12(i) Your Honor has the authority to 19 defer ruling on the jurisdictional question in deference
20 to the Second Circuit proceedings. Rule 12(i) plainly
21 allows that type of deferral, and I'd offer Your Honor a
22 cite to the Kregler v. City of New York case, 608 F. Supp.
23 2d 465 at 475, a Judge Marrero decision from 2009. What 24 12(i) is designed to do is to avoid having to deal with 25 issues that may be complex, require further development

22

2 when there's an easier merits way out of it.

3 And towards that end, Your Honor, I'd also like 4 to offer you this proposition which was picked up in 5 another Southern District case, Wright & Miller says the 6 following, "When the jurisdictional question is complex or 7 difficult, a court simply may avoid the issue by resolving
8 the suit on the merits when they clearly must be decided 9 in favor of the party challenging jurisdiction, thereby
10 obviating any need to decide the question." That's quoted
11 in a decision called In re LIBOR-Based Financial
12 Instruments Antitrust Litigation by Judge Buchwald, 216
13 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 51190 at pp. 112-133, n.8.

14 Our point is this, Your Honor, there's an 15 orderly way without embarking on months of jurisdictional
16 discovery to defer adjudication of the jurisdictional
17 issue, to let the Second Circuit deal with it after Judge
18 Daniels does, in the Sokolow case and then proceed on to 19 the summary judgment question. That's precisely the type
20 of, there's an easier way to resolve this without taking 21 up the challenging jurisdictional question. There's no
22 doubt there's a jurisdictional question under what Your 23 Honor has called the justice for victims act. It's a 24 challenging one. This case has been up to the Supreme 25 Court, back to the Second Circuit, this issue rather in

23

2 Sokolow has been up to the Supreme Court, back to the 3 Second Circuit, back to Judge Daniels, and the Second
4 Circuit said here's how we want to handle this PSJVTA
5 issue upon remand from the Supreme Court.

6 And what we're seeing in all of these cases -
7 Fuld, this case, and Sokolow - is that each of the 8 plaintiffs is trying to pick off a different approach in 9 each case, and what we're suggesting is there ought to be 10 a uniform approach across all three of these cases in 11 order to allow the Second Circuit to do the work that it
12 first assigned to Judge Daniels. Rule 12(i) is the path
13 that allows the court to do that consistent with the 14 court's authority. And that --

15

(interposing)

16

THE COURT: -- counsel, a couple of points.

17

First of all, I'm looking at Rule 12(i). Tell me what respect that supports what you've just argued to me.

MR. BERGER: Yes, Your Honor, I understand and I read 12(i) myself and I asked myself that same question which is why we researched the case law under Rule 12(i) which provides exactly the authority that I mentioned, and I can give Your Honor both the Kregler case that I cited and it interprets Rule 12(i) in the way that I said and the Cooper Robertson Partners LLP v. Vale decision, a

1 PROCEEDING 24
2 Judge Robert Carter decision, 143 F. Supp. 2d 367 at 370,
3 and those interpret what I agree is the otherwise opaque
4 language of Rule 12(i) --

5 THE COURT: It's not opaque. Rule 12 talks
6 about a hearing before trial.

7 MR. BERGER: I understand that, Your Honor, so
8 let me offer you, if I may, a --

9 THE COURT: Counsel. Counsel, can I ask you
10 the next question related to that? Even if I assume 11 you're correct about this, that Rule 12(i) gives me the 12 vehicle to do what you're asking me to do. You now want 13 me to allow you to move for summary judgment, right, based 14 on the Judge Leon opinion, correct?

15 MR. BERGER: On the discovery record that 16 underlay Judge Leon's decision. This was a fully 17 discovered case.

18 THE COURT: I understand, I understand. But
19 the D.C. circuit vacated the Judge Leon summary judgment
20 opinion. So how can there possibly be any kind of 21 preclusive effect? They vacated it based on your argument
22 that there was no jurisdiction in the first place, and so
23 he couldn't properly grant summary judgment.

24 MR. BERGER: We're not arguing it for 25 preclusive effect, Your Honor. What we're saying is that

1 PROCEEDING 25

2 the discovery record developed over many years before

3 Judge Leon would allow us to renew a motion for summary

4 judgment because there is no discovery left to take. This

5 was a fully discovered case. We're not arguing for

6 preclusive effect; we're saying that in the alternative,

7 given that this case, unusual among many having been

8 around for 18 years, provides all the bases for the

9 parties to have summary judgment proceedings even if there

10 were jurisdiction under the PSJVTA. All of that discovery

11 is entirely admissible in this case. There's no reason --

12 THE COURT: Do you have the October 7 letter
13 sent by Mr. Baloul to me?

14 MR. BERGER: I do, Your Honor.

15 THE COURT: Which argues that "even if the 16 PSJVTA supplied jurisdiction, plaintiffs' federal claims
17 should be subject to immediate entry of summary judgment"
18 - immediate - "based on the previously binding D.D.C.
19 decision."

20 MR. BERGER: Yes, Your Honor, and after reading
21 the plaintiffs' objection to that in their subsequent 22 response, we had an alternative proposal to make to Your 23 Honor, which is rather than do that, and as we said, and 24 Your Honor will see this, on page 3 of docket number 43
25 which was our response to plaintiffs' letter application

1 PROCEEDING 26
2 for jurisdictional discovery, we say in the first full
3 paragraph on page 3 that the same discovery record taken
4 in Shatsky is equally admissible in this lawsuit and 5 compels the same conclusion that plaintiffs cannot 6 establish causation, an element of both primary and 7 secondary liability.

8 So our modified proposal as of our last letter
9 to the Court is that we should be allowed, even if there
10 were jurisdiction, to move for summary judgment based on 11 the prior case record.

12 THE COURT: All right, I understand. I
13 appreciate your modifying your position in response to 14 what plaintiff pointed out.

15 MR. BERGER: And I'd like to offer, Your Honor, 16 one additional case cite, again, because I too spent some 17 time wrestling with Rule 12(i). But here's - Wright &
18 Miller 5C § 1373, citing a Southern District case. It
19 says Rule 12(i) authorizes deferral of a complex issue, 20 and I'm quoting here, "when a related matter is pending in 21 another tribunal." And it cites United States v.
22 Cigarette Manufacturers, sorry, Merchandizers Association,
23 18 F.R.D. 497 (S.D.N.Y. 1955).

24 That's our point. You have the PSJVTA issues
25 pending in another tribunal. It is pending either before

PROCEEDING

27

2 Judge Daniels in the Southern District or, given the 3 unique terms of the remand by the Second Circuit, it will
4 be pending in the Second Circuit, and there is no reason
5 to duplicate that effort on the PSJVTA in this case. And 6 when Rule 12(i) says, look, you can skip over a
7 complicated jurisdictional issue that is pending in 8 another tribunal and proceed to an easy merits issue, our 9 respectful suggestion is that there's no need to go on 10 this long detour of jurisdictional discovery when you can
11 table the jurisdictional issue and proceed to summary
12 judgment. If these principles anywhere, surely they apply
13 here. This is an 18-year-old case --

14

(interposing)

15

MR. BERGER: -- that involves depositions --

16

THE COURT: I get all of that, and I get the 17 path that you're proposing to me. I have other questions
18 for you. Is your argument with respect to jurisdiction
19 solely about personal jurisdiction or also subject matter
20 jurisdiction?

21

MR. BERGER: It is solely, Your Honor, about 22 personal jurisdiction.

23

THE COURT: Okay.

24

MR. BERGER: And, Your Honor, if I may, Your
25 Honor asked a very important and intriguing question

PROCEEDING

28

2 because, as I believe Your Honor may be suggesting, the 3 Second Circuit recently addressed this issue like in the 4 Butcher v. Wendt case, came out of the Second Circuit in 5 September, that said when jurisdiction does not involve an 6 Article 3 subject matter jurisdiction question but 7 involves only statutory jurisdiction which is what we have 8 here, a new statute that purports to grant jurisdiction,
9 the court can assume hypothetical jurisdiction and proceed
10 to easy merits issue.

11 THE COURT: I asked you the question about 12 subject matter versus personal, that's exactly what I'm 13 getting at.

14 MR. BERGER: Yes, Your Honor, and we think 15 there are many paths to that same conclusion, so one is 16 Rule 12(i), the second is hypothetical jurisdiction. The 17 third one, but I heard Your Honor reject it, so I'm not 18 suggesting it, is the case could be further stayed pending
19 Sokolow. But any one of the first two, 12(i) or 20 hypothetical jurisdiction, would allow this Court to say,
21 look, I understand the Second Circuit is dealing with this 22 issue and going to do so in the near term and do so
23 authoritatively, either I'm going to defer the personal 24 jurisdiction question and proceed to summary judgment or 25 I'm going to assume without deciding that there's

PROCEEDING

29

2 hypothetical personal jurisdiction and proceed to summary
3 judgment.

4 Your Honor, we hear you loud and clear about the 5 age of this case, and trust me, this case against our 6 client was filed 18 years ago, November of 2002. It is 7 fully discovered. We're keen to say that even if there
8 were jurisdiction, and the Second Circuit will tell us
9 whether there is, the Court could proceed to summary
10 judgment. If the Court doesn't want to do that, then the 11 Court can certainly put this case on hold pending the 12 outcome in Sokolow, and we're not just trying to convince 13 Your Honor that this is the right approach. We're trying 14 to convince, and will on Monday make our argument to Judge
15 Furman that this is the right way forward. Because the 16 one thing that would really in our respectful submission
17 damage the judicial system is to have three separate 18 district courts wrestling with the same issue.

19 THE COURT: I don't buy that, and I don't want
20 to hear that. As a judge, I have an obligation to deal
21 with issues before me, and lots of times different
22 district judges come out differently, and that's why
23 appellate courts exist. So that argument is just not 24 compelling to me at all.

25 There are a couple of other things I'd like to

1 PROCEEDING 30

2 explore with you both sides though. What is the schedule
3 in Sokolow?

4 MR. BERGER: Your Honor, the opening brief from 5 the plaintiffs is due, pursuant to an extension that they 6 just requested, is due on November the 12th. Our 7 response, pursuant to that schedule, is Due January 8, and 8 the plaintiffs' reply is due February 9.

9 THE COURT: All right, so I mean there's no
10 assurance you're going to have a ruling from the Second
11 Circuit even by the end of next summer.

12 MR. BERGER: That's correct, Your Honor.

13 THE COURT: All right. And you say you have 14 argument on Monday in front of Judge Furman.

15 MR. BERGER: No, Your Honor, we're filing our 16 motion to dismiss on Monday the 9th in which we will be 17 making this argument. We had previously moved to dismiss 18 for lack of jurisdiction and under 12(b) (6) but the 19 plaintiffs amended, so our opening brief on our motion to 20 dismiss the amended complaint is due Monday.

21 THE COURT: So you moved on personal
22 jurisdiction grounds?

23 MR. BERGER: We moved on personal jurisdiction
24 because the plaintiff, including under the PSJVTA, because 25 the plaintiffs there had personal jurisdiction allegations

PROCEEDING

31

2 that they included in their complaint to which we
3 responded and said the factual basis for personal
4 jurisdiction under the PSJBTA is incorrect. It's 5 processes like that that caused us, Your Honor, to say to 6 the plaintiffs, look, the D.C. circuit said if you have
7 new facts that you feel support --

THE COURT: I get it. (inaudible) rehash all
9 that. I get it. You asked them to amend and they didn't.
10 I get that. But can you finish telling me about the case
11 in front of Judge Furman?

12

MR. BERGER: Yes, Your Honor.

13

THE COURT: You moved to dismiss for lack of 14 personal jurisdiction and then they amended, is that 15 right?

MR. BERGER: And 12(b) (6). And then they
17 amended, that's correct, Your Honor.

18

THE COURT: And what did they amend to do, just 19 add more meat on the bones of their allegations or did
20 they assert something different?

21

MR. BERGER: They amended to basically, Your 22 Honor, as the plaintiffs' letters here do, to copy the 23 Sokolow allegations about PSJVTA jurisdiction, they added
24 some minor additional factual allegations, but mostly what
25 they did was they imported the Sokolow PSJBTA jurisdictional

1 PROCEEDING 32

2 allegations.

3 THE COURT: Okay, and then you filed a new motion
4 to dismiss or you just renewed the one you previously had 5 made?6 MR. BERGER: We will be filing our new motion to 7 dismiss on Monday in which we will make the same suggestion
8 I've made to Your Honor.9 THE COURT: Okay. One final question about the 10 case before Judge Furman, and then I want to hear from 11 plaintiffs again in response to what you're proposing. You
12 don't have any indication from him whether he's going to 13 entertain argument, right?14 MR. BERGER: I don't have that, Your Honor. Judge
15 Furman, when we filed an original motion to dismiss, set kind
16 of two prescriptive schedules. One is that the plaintiffs had 17 X days to amend, and if they amended, then we had a choice of 18 standing on our previous motion or refiling. We chose the 19 refiling option. That's all that he's done so far. And he 20 has adjourned sine die the original initial scheduling
21 conference in that case because of the motions that were 22 filed, and he gave us the opportunity to refile.23 THE COURT: Are there any plaintiffs in the Fuld
24 case that overlap with the plaintiffs here?

25 MR. BERGER: No, Your Honor.

PROCEEDING

33

THE COURT: And what about in the case in front of Judge Daniels?

8

MR. BERGER: No, Your Honor. And I know you don't want me to be argumentative, but I just want to reinforce one point which is that part of our point which is there aren't case specific issues under the PSJVTA. They're common across all three of these cases.

11

12

13

14

THE COURT: I understand that. I just wanted to know whether these plaintiffs, these exact groups of plaintiffs were getting three separate bites at the apple here. That's what I'm trying to get at.

15

17

18

MR. BERGER: Not across those three cases, Your Honor.

19

21

22

23

25

THE COURT: Okay. All right. Actually before I let you go, one final question, why shouldn't I grant leave to and here so that we're at least knowing what complaint we're or what allegations we're working off of?

19

21

22

23

24

25

MR. BERGER: We don't oppose that, and, in fact, we've urged them to amend.

19

21

22

23

25

THE COURT: Okay. All right, thank you. So let me turn back to the plaintiffs. Counsel, my reaction after listening to both of you, I was going to say patiently, maybe I wasn't so patient, but why are you not amending your complaint to be clear about what it is that you're arguing so

1 PROCEEDING 34
2 that if and when we get to motion practice, everybody knows
3 what the target is?

4 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Well, Your Honor, can I go
5 again for the plaintiffs? We think the defendants know
6 perfectly well what the factual issues are around jurisdiction
7 under the PSJBTA. The questions are twofold: One, are the 8 defendants making payments by, you know, to individuals
9 imprisoned or killed in connection with, you know, the 10 commission of terrorists acts in which American citizens were 11 injured, that's number one. And number --

12 THE COURT: And do you --

13 (interposing)

14 THE COURT: Do you plead in your complaint that 15 they've done that?

16 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: We allege that they were 17 doing it prior to the trigger date under the PSJBTA, and the 18 reason that it's prior to is because - oh, go ahead.

19 THE COURT: That's not sufficient, right?

20 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Well, under the statute
21 there's a trigger date, so obviously those allegations are not
22 allegations that would result, if true would result in a
23 consent to jurisdiction under the PSJBTA. But --

24 THE COURT: Right. For right now, on the basis of 25 your pleadings, they're entitled to dismissal by your

PROCEEDING

35

2 admission.

3 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Well, we don't agree with 4 that, Your Honor, respectfully, because, as I said, you know,
5 as I said earlier, a complaint is not required to allege
6 (indiscernible) for personal jurisdiction. In the event that 7 there is a motion to dismiss based on lack of personal
8 jurisdiction, we would be entitled to oppose that motion not 9 only based on the allegations in our complaint but also on the 10 basis of other evidence that we could put in front of the 11 Court. So I don't --

12 THE COURT: Counsel, it's cleaner for us all, for 13 the court, for defendants, and everybody else who's going to 14 look at this, to understand what the allegations were that 15 they were moving to dismiss. Why are you resisting amending?

16 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Your Honor, we're not
17 resisting. If the Court believes that it would be appropriate
18 for us to amend the complaint to include specific allegations
19 relating to facts that would trigger personal jurisdiction
20 under the PSJVTA, we're prepared to do that, although, as I
21 said at the beginning and as I explained to Mr. Berger when we 22 spoke earlier, when we spoke at the very beginning of all 23 this, we just don't it's necessary under the law. But if 24 that's something the Court wants us to do, we're, of course,
25 prepared to do it.

36

2 THE COURT: All right, well, counsel, I just told
3 you what my reaction would be to a motion to dismiss the 4 complaint that doesn't contain allegations that hits the 5 trigger. So if you wish to amend, leave is granted, and you
6 need to do that within two weeks.

7 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Your Honor, just under all
8 of the circumstances, given that our clients are in Israel and 9 that there are some logistical issues, could we have 30 days
10 to amend our complaint?

11 THE COURT: No, counsel, you've been talking about 12 this for how long. You know what the allegations are. If you
13 run into, you know, extraordinary circumstances that you
14 cannot overcome and you make a specific showing, you can come
15 back to me for an extension, but right now the order is two 16 weeks.

17 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Okay, that's fine, Your 18 Honor. That's fine.

19 THE COURT: Thank you, that's the ruling.

20 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Okay. Your Honor, I don't 21 know that Your Honor wants to hear me on this, but there are a
22 number of points that Mr. Berger made with which I disagree
23 relating to the impact of the proceedings before Judge Leon in 24 this case sort of regardless of the D.C. circuit's vacate 25 order.

PROCEEDING

37

THE COURT: No, I don't really --

ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: I don't know if Your Honor wants to hear us on that now, and if not, we can be heard on it later, but I do have some reactions to it to share.

THE COURT: I don't need to hear it right now because it will become relevant only if and when we get to the stage where defendants are renewing their request for leave to move for summary judgment. I'm not going to grant that just yet. I'm not saying no, Mr. Berger, on the summary judgment,
I'm just not prepared to entertain it just yet.

12

ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Right --

13

MR. BERGER: Understood, Your Honor, and if I may just ask a housekeeping question then so that we don't burden you with additional letters, which is if they amend in two weeks and we wish to either proceeding by summary judgment or a motion, how would Your Honor like us to proceed? Shall we write another pretrial conference letter? Does Your Honor want us to respond within the two weeks to an amended complaint that Rule 15 would give us? We'll do, of course, whatever the Court wants, but I want to make sure that we're not working at cross-purposes with Your Honor's direction.

THE COURT: All right, I mean to be perfectly honest, I want to go back and look at the Second Circuit decisions again, and I will enter an order with instructions

1 PROCEEDING

38

2 about how we're going to proceed once we get an amended
3 complaint.

4 MR. BERGER: Absolutely, Your Honor, thank you.

5 THE COURT: All right, is there anything else from 6 either side that we need to talk about today then in light of 7 what I've ordered?

8 MR. BERGER: Not from the defendants, Your Honor.

9 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Apart from the point I
10 raised a moment ago which we can raise later if necessary, 11 just a question of sort of, you know, the impact of the 12 rulings in the D.C. litigation which we think, you know, we 13 just disagree with the defendants' position in a lot of 14 different ways on that point, not anything for us at the 15 moment. I assume that, right, we'll file our amended
16 complaint and Your Honor will proceed.

17 THE COURT: Right. Correct. All right, anything
18 else at this point?

19 MR. BERGER: Nothing, Your Honor, thank you.

20 ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Nothing for the 21 plaintiffs, Your Honor, thanks for hearing us this morning.

22 THE COURT: All right, thank you both very much.
23 Have a good rest of the day and please stay healthy and safe,
24 everyone.

25 MR. BERGER: Thank you.

1

ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: And you, and everybody.

THE COURT: Thank you.

ATTORNEY FOR PLAINTIFF: Thank you.
